PLATE 21

Locality.—From rocks in the Witte Bergen, Colonial Native Reserve.

Site.—Not found. I corresponded with Miss Stow, a daughter of G. W. Stow's, on the subject, and she told me she remembered having been with her father as a small child when he heard of a wonderful painting of ostriches, but she had no idea of the locality. He sent his head-man out scouting. 'The man returned to where we were camped greatly excited to say that a little Bushman had shown him the cave, that the painting was "very good" of ostriches, and I remember his stooping attitude to show a hunter in disguise.' The cave was high up and almost inaccessible, but the Bushman showed the way, a cleft rock was scaled with the help of ropes and crowbars, and the painting reached was to the great joy of Mr. Stow.

Explanation.—A Bushman said of the pictures, 'Ostriches, three black males, two blue females. The 'nusa Bushmen, not the 'kham Bushmen, are said to hunt in ostrich skins.'

In his book Stow says, 'A number of disguises were constantly employed by the old Bushmen hunters to facilitate approach to the objects of their attack. When taking the field against the elephant, the hippopotamus or rhinoceros, they appeared with the head and hide of a hartebeest over their shoulders, and whilst advancing towards their quarry through the long grass would carefully mimic all the actions of the animal they wished to represent. They appeared again in the spoils of a blesbok, with the head and wings of a vulture, the striped hide of a zebra, or they might be seen stalking in the guise of an ostrich.'

Dimensions: 14 × 26 inches.

ROCK-PAINTINGS IN SOUTH AFRICA

Copied by GEORGE WILLIAM STOW

With an Introduction and Descriptive Notes

by DOROTHEA F. BLEEK

With 72 Plates and a Map

Limited to 500 copies

A VOLUME of specimens of the rock paintings found in the mountainous regions of South Africa. These copies were made sixty years ago when the figures on the rocks were in a better state of preservation than they now are. The plates include pictures of animals and of human beings, groups showing the hunts, dances and other activities of the Bushman artists. They are accompanied by notes by Miss D. F. Bleek, who has recently visited the originals to compare them with the copies. Explanations of many pictures are given, some of them orally supplied by Bushmen. The majority of the paintings are reproduced in colour, a few in black and white. The Carnegie Trust of New York is financing the publication.
